Tar-Amandil was the third King of Númenor. He ruled de-facto for 148 years, from 442 to 590 of the Second Age. Tar-Amandil was legally the third King, but actually its second ruler.<sup>[1]</sup> His father, Vardamir Nólimon, declined to take the Sceptre upon the death of his own father, Elros Tar-Minyatur, and was only a titular King that was deemed to have reigned one year.

Tar-Amandil had three children: two sons, Elendil and Eärendur; and a daughter, Mairë.<sup>[2]</sup> Just as his father had yielded the Sceptre before his death, Tar-Amandil abdicated in 590<sup>[1]</sup> and was succeeded by his eldest son Elendil, who would rule as Tar-Elendil.<sup>[2]</sup> This tradition of renouncing the Sceptre a few years before death was observed by most of the rulers of Númenor until Tar-Atanamir.
